Blue and Gold Team Expects to Win Title

Peter Kallas writes That the Sacramento Quintet is A Strong Team.

By Peter Kallas, Pony Express Sports Editor, Sacramento Junior College.)

Determined to maintain or better the pace they set last season in the California Coast Conference, a practically intact Sacramento Junior College basketball quintet is fast rounding itself into midseason playing for their opening conference games scheduled for January 17th and 18th with the California Polytechnic Vocational College at San Luis Obispo, California.

Blessed with six lettermen, five of whom saw regular duties a year ago, the Red and Gold eagles are being groomed as the "team to beat" for the triple C crown this year. Facts for this optimistic prediction are being based from last year's performances. Only one conference game was dropped by the locals on the 1928-29 conference schedule. Nine league contests were played.

The veterans from last year's aggregation are as follows: Captain-elect Jack Remick, guard; Ernie Barber, 1927 captain and forward; Jiggs Traversi, last year's captain and forward; Park Schuler, guard; Harry Morse, center; and Jim Rainey, substitute guard. Three of the above-mentioned hoopers are playing their third and last season with the Sacramento five. Harry Morse, Ernie Barber and Jiggs Traversi were members of the 1927 squad. Traversi and Barber served as regulars while Morse played in many games at center.

The Panthers, who are being coached by the youthful Ted Shipkey, a former All-American end in football for the Leland Stanford University, appear set for a great season in the casaba game. Over confidence cost them the conference title last year and they are out to seek revenge from every member of the said circuit this season. Going into the championship series of two games with the San Mateo Junior College a year ago, the Capital City five displayed its worst exhibition of the year and lost a close battle to the Bulldogs. By virtue of this victory, the San Mateans claimed the title on the basis of having played one more game than the locals. The result of the second titular affair marked the Bulldogs' initial defeat, a lopsided one, too.

The Panthers will finish the 1929-30 season, using its five veterans in their starting lineup. Coach Shipkey, however, will have to use a new player at at one of the forward positions against the college of many trades. Ernie Barber, the best all around hooper to ever wear a Red and Gold jersey, will not be eligible for the first two games. Barber failed to fulfill credit requirements last semester and for that reason he is not eligible to compete until after the present semester is over. The team will be greatly handicapped with the absence of this star player.

An abundance of reserve material may probably offset this handicap to some extent, as the local mentor has uncorked several good sharpshooters who are fighting desperately to land the vacant position for the first two contests. At present, Foster Powell and Lamar Sidener seem to have advantage over the field of competitors. Either one or both may get to play against the southland institution.

Traversi is a dead shot from every angle of the court. Last year he averaged ten points per game which is a creditable record for any hooper to possess. This season he started off towards a much greater year. He was good for twenty-eight points in the above mentioned games. In Park Schuler and Captain Jack Remick, the Panthers have had the best pair of guards in the city. Both are tall and play a very clean game. Harry Morse is the only player on the squad who can not be depended on for a Herring exhibition. When he is good he is very good, but when he is bad—oh well. Gordon Daniels is Morse's understudy at center. Daniels is a bright prospect but lacks experience.

The following players will be taken South: Captain Jack Remick, Jiggs Traversi, Park Schuler, Harry Morse, Lamar Sidner, Foster Powell, Jim Rainey, Peterson, Daniels, Wilson, Ross, and Kane.

Polytechnic Students Lose Admired Friend

For several years students of the California Polytechnic have seen a dignified white haired gentleman of scholarly appearance occasionally ride to the campus in his daughter's car and, while waiting for her, walk leisurely around amongst the flower gardens near the Ad building.

Students and faculty members who were fortunate enough to know him quickly learned to love and admire him.

Miss Chase's father died early Thanksgiving morning. His body had been ill but a short while and, until the very last, although he was 83 years old, he retained his extraordinary vigor of mind. His character was so outstanding that even as recently as a few months before his death, he received unusual marks of honor and affection from the congregations of pastorates where he had preached many years ago.

This is the first opportunity which the Polygram has had to express to Miss Chase the sympathy which the California Polytechnic feels for her in the loss of her fine father.

Poly Wins Honors

The Agriculture Department of California Polytechnic, of which, we are all somewhat acquainted, is deserving of a handshake. A hearty handshake, the kind you would give our athletes. They have come home again, from another stock exhibition contest with "blue ribbon honors." These are no small honors and are the fruits of hard work and patience and deserve these honors the same as a champion athlete receives.

For many years Poly has been working for these honors, and they have realized them for many years. This year they seem to be higher and they take in a large scope of representation. Poly is going ahead year after year. Boost Poly by congratulating these hard working Ags.

Subject "A" Examination To Be Given January 27

No Junior College student can graduate from the Jaycee department until he has passed the subject "A" examination or has taken the subject "A" course. This is a course in English composition that is required in all Junior Colleges and in the University of California.

The subject "A" for Jaycee students will be given Monday, Jan. 27, from 2:30 to 4 p. m.

Several new courses will be offered next semester. These are, a course in hydraulics offered by Mr. Knott, a college course in trigonometry for the first time offered by Miss Jordan, and a course in farm accounts and beginning algebra offered by Mr. Rider.

Notice!

Senior pictures for the El Rodeo are now being taken. All Seniors are asked to have their pictures taken before Feb. 15. Appointments should be made with Lowell Day as soon as possible.

The Polygram wishes to express sympathy to Kenneth Green, of last year's staff, because of his recent bereavement.

Snow Furnishes Fun for Polyites

Early Saturday morning, Jan. 11, gleeful ejaculations from pajama clad figures, poking disheveled heads from dorm windows, foretold plans for a joyful day, as the sight of snow on neighboring mountains invited. While yet the sun was low in the east, figures could be seen hurrying around, some looked like they were going to the North Pole to spend a winter and before they could get cars to hitting on all four looked like they had just finished a mile run in the tropics.

The day broke clear and cold and before long Poly Campus was deserted as the last of the Poly vehicles journeyed into the mountains. They were not the only ones to take advantage of this winter pleasure as Cuesta Grade became so congested with traffic that a speed cop had to be present to handle the traffic. Every likely spot that was big enough to park a car was taken.

The merry-makers were soon busy and some with not their own affairs. Travelers, coming from both directions were royally received by snow balls. Some took the situation in good humor while others couldn't see anything to be hilarious over. Some had smiles and merely wanted to get away as soon as possible while others (you could tell by the expressions on their faces) distorted their faces as nice solid snow balls smacked their noses, let flow a little profanity and perhaps wished that—oh, there ought to be a law against that.

Sleds were quickly and crudely made and carried by ambitious youths who tugged and hauled for thirty minutes up steep hill sides only to ride right down again in a tenth of the time and sometimes the sled and rider didn't land in the same place at the same time. How they enjoyed themselves was nobody's business.

Parties reported seeing deer, that perhaps were in search of a breakfast that the white blanket of snow concealed.

Lorraine Perozzi Success in Play

Lorraine Perozzi was the six year old star of the play called "The Wolf's Thanksgiving" which was presented by the Campus Playshop in Crandall Gymnasium Wednesday, November 27. Her acting and speech quite captivated the audience which showed its appreciation by prolonged applause at the end of the play.

Milo McChesney, who took the part which Bert Jones would have played if he had not been ill, deserves a great deal of credit. Milo was told on Monday that he would have to take Bert's place, and, memorizing his part in that short length of time, gave a very good performance on Wednesday.

He took the part of a son of wealthy parents who had been kidnapped several years ago, and who had been rescued and raised by a newsboy and his family. After the death of the newsboy's parents, the wolf was forced to sell papers with his foster brother. In honestly returning a lost purse, the wolf finds his parents and sister, and his aunt agrees to adopt the newsboy who had so well befriended him. The reunion makes Thanksgiving day a time for real gratitude and happiness.

The whole play, thanks to the efforts of Miss Peterson and the players, was a great success. The players were: Wolf, Milo McChesney; newsboy, Morton Williams; Wolf's mother, Mary Parsons; his aunt, Florence Parsons; his little sister, Lorraine Perozzi; his father, Owen Lindsay; a girl, Beatrice Stout.

Crandalls Receive At Yule Log Party

The Crandall's home was the scene of the beautiful Yule Log service on Christmas night. Before the advent of the Yule Log, carol singing was enjoyed. When the log was brought in, the bell at the gate, which was made here in the Forge Shop, was rung. The log was lighted by embers from last year's log thereby carrying on the tradition. Mr. Cain sang "Noel" during the ceremony. Mrs. Kellog told the history of the Yule Log, and Mrs. Funk told of the spirit, giving the tale a colorful background by throwing chemicals in the blaze which gave off varied bright colors. The remainder of this delightful party was spent in games, every one having a hilarious time. Those enjoying the affair were members of the faculty on and around the campus and farm employes.

Faculty and Staff Enjoy the Holidays

The Crandalls spent most of their vacation at home, entertaining numerous callers. Dr. Crandall went to Sacramento on school business, while Mrs. Crandall visited in Berkeley.

Miss Chase, being confined to her bed the first part of vacation, was unable to attend Institute, but spent a very enjoyable New Years' in San Francisco with her friend Miss Zoffman.

Miss Jordan spent the first part of the vacation in San Luis Obispo taking care of Miss Chase. During the latter part of vacation, she visited in Los Angeles and Bakersfield. At the latter place she was visiting with her sister, Miss Hazel Jordan.

Miss Knox attended Monterey Institute the first week of vacation, later motoring to the vicinity of San Francisco and to Los Angeles to visit with her numerous friends.

Mr. Thompson spent most of the vacation at work on the campus, but took a few days at Christmas time to drive, with his son Prescott, to San Francisco. He reported that the new car made the trip easily.

Dr. Wilder was instructor of the Science group at the Monterey meeting of teachers from the Central Coast section. His series of lectures and discussions covered the teaching of electricity in the elementary and secondary schools. The meetings were well attended, and he was given a rising vote of thanks upon their conclusion.

Miss Elsie Haskin went south to Institute, and spent the rest of the time visiting friends in Los Angeles and vicinity.

Miss Carae spent the first part of the vacation at Oakland Institute, and during the rest of the time, visited in the northern bay region.

Miss Ruth Peterson journeyed the farthest from Poly, going back to her old home in Minnesota. She reports that the Christmas weather there was sunny, being by no means as cold as that of the past two weeks here.

Mr and Mrs. Selph spent the holidays on the Poly Campus.

During vacation the Dunning family moved from Marsh Street to the new school ranch on the Morro road. Mr. Dunning spent some time at teachers' meeting in Monterey and the rest of the time here.

Mr Warren and Mr. Bell spent all vacation working around the aero shop.

Mr. and Mrs. Funk went to Monterey Institute, then to Oakland and Berkeley for a day or two visiting their son, Franklin.

Mr. D. B. Macfarlane went north for medical attention and for Institute. He spent the latter part of the vacation teaching the new car the ways of San Luis Obispo.

Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Stout attended Institute in the north, returning to San Luis Obispo to spend Christmas with their family.

Miss Louise Abbott went to Monterey Institute, later visiting in the northern bay district where she attended every one of the Shakespeare plays being given in San Francisco at that time.

Mr. Preuss stayed in town during vacation.

Mr. McFarland went to Teachers' Institute, but spent the rest of the vacation here.

Coach and Mrs. A. P. Agosti and Carol motored to Los Angeles where the Coach attended Institute. Later they journeyed northward to spend a few days with Mrs. Agosti's parents.

The Mitchells spent most of their vacation on wheels literally. They took a trip down south, spending most of their time in San Diego. They also visited their son, John, who was graduated in '29. He is working in India and is looking fine and enjoying his work according to report. John sent his regards to all the old students who knew him. While in India they visited the Painted Canyon in the Pinto Hills which was very interesting.

Mr. Cain attended Institute and visited around the northern part of the state, but came home for Christmas. After Christmas he took a trip through the San Joaquin valley visiting friends.

A surprise reception was tendered him at Dinuba by his old choral group there.

Miss Hansen went to Hollywood for a few days and spent the rest of the vacation at home.

Miss Gould visited in Santa Barbara, then returned to San Luis for the remainder of the vacation.

Mr. Lynn Broughton spent the holidays at home.

Mr. "Mel" Rider spent three weeks of his vacation in the hospital at Santa Barbara in a very low condition. He was taken down the day

Mustangs' quintet have first Conference games tonight and tomorrow.

Musical Program By Santa Maria High

Instruments and Voices Perform for Small Crowd. Dance Follows.

A delightful musical program was presented by musicians from the Santa Maria High School in Crandall Gymnasium, Friday evening, January 10. The orchestra was led by Mr. Booth and Mr. McAllister was, in charge of the Girls' Glee Club. Due to a confusion of dates, and a lack of time for adequate announcements, there was a small crowd, but the people in attendance enjoyed the program and were enthusiastic in their praise of the young performers. They also appreciated the fact that the orchestra and Glee Club turned out one hundred per cent in spite of the rain.

After the program, there was dancing until ten o'clock. Then refreshments were served by the Annapolis girls in the social room. The refreshments were furnished by the Band, Glee Club, and the Cafeteria.

"Dust of the Road" Was Enjoyed By Students

The Christmas play "Dust of the Road" was well presented and favorably received. Extremely modern in its symbolic treatment and with a depth of feeling surprising in the scope of a one act play. Its theme was one well suited to the more thoughtful aspect of the holiday season.

The plot dealt with a country family, faced with temptation. When almost succumbing Judas Iscariot, "The Dust of the Road", the incarnation of the soul who has chosen the evil way appears. Through his persuasions the man and his wife are led to accept continued destitution with a clear conscience rather than a dishonestly gained competence.

Those of the cast were: Della Erving as the wife, George Schmeidt as Peter the husband, Bill Williams as Judas Iscariot and Owen Lindsay as the Old Uncle who is torn between righteousness and loyalty.

New Semester Brings Several New Students.

Along with the new semester we have now enrolled five new students. Three entering the Junior College division and two entering the High School.

Those taking the Junior College course are Winfield Kilmer of Hanford, Richard Willet of Avila and Flave Winchel of Wendel. The High School students are Bill Nissen of Spreckels and John Sensabaugh of Merced.

We are sure these boys will find a warm welcome and a snappy last semester before them.

after school was out and did not return home until January 2. He was then taken to the Mountain View Hospital where his tonsils were removed. He is at home now and is much improved in health.

Coach Ray McCart went to Institute in Oakland and then enjoyed a good long rest in Modesto.

Mr. Ball went to Los Angeles for Institute. While there he made arrangements with the Architectural Club of So. California, to take a class down there next spring to study buildings of architectural interest. The family spent a few days at Cambrria Pines and enjoyed the fine weather.

Mr. Hyer went to the Teachers' Institute at Monterey. While there, he had a very interesting session with the Vocational Teachers. Later he returned and spent Christmas and the latter part of his vacation in San Luis Obispo.

Captain and Mrs. Deuel stayed in San Luis Obispo for the holidays and so did the M. B. Smiths and the Perozzis.

The Knotts and the Cunninghams journeyed southward, Mrs. Cunningham remaining for a little longer visit.

The W. O. Smiths, besides attending Institute, visited with relatives in the San Joaquin Valley and in Los Angeles.

Mr. Figgis went to Institute in Monterey. The rest of the time he stayed at home.

Mr. Meacham says that he milked cows all Christmas vacation.

SEMESTER ENDS

The end of the third week of this month will end the first semester. Half of the year has rolled by, showing a progressive situation in the world.

The world has progressed in the past six months. New ideas, better ideas have supplanted those that we think now are old and crude. The world is bettering itself and enriching itself day by day. Are you following the same policy; one of betterment and enrichment to yourself?

Do everything possible to improve your technique. It is better to feel as if you have gained a step for it gives a feeling of contentment and satisfaction which rests on accomplishment, the self-satisfaction that determines the confidence for betterment and ambition for a higher goal.

Something to work for gives satisfaction if you have a certain degree of confidence in yourself. This confidence is gained only through proving to yourself that you can do a thing.

BASKETBALL

Basketball season is now in full swing. Coach McCart is working to make a team that will win praise from you. The fellows that are trying for the squad are depending on a reaction from the students of Poly to help them to be winners. The gym should be packed by Poly members fighting with them to conquer. Turn out to the games and hand them deserved praise.

Some of last year's veterans are back stronger and better than ever. A lot of new material is showing up as exceptional. A basketball spirit should be created among Poly's students. A lively interest should prevail, centering around the team.

The team is working for honors. Honors can only be obtained by good team work backed by a fighting interest in our student body.

Some good games are scheduled for this season. The team will work hard to win but it needs the support of Poly.

Do you realize the advantages offered you through drama? Perhaps you are not interested in becoming an actor or actress. That is practically understood. A high school student is very rarely as good as a professional. But the outstanding advantages gained are voice culture, learning to speak distinctly, obtaining confidence to appear before a crowd, proper carriage of the body and numerous other facts that are useful in everyday life.

This line of study stirs the sluggish imagination which kept you in a world of "let's pretend" when you were a child. How many times as a child have you imitated the gestures and characteristics of manner depicted by a policeman, a soldier, a conductor, a detective, Buffalo Bill, Sitting Bull and dozens of other heroes of childish fancy? Why can't you do this now in an even more effective manner?

Make the most of your opportunity at Poly. Enter a class in dramatics today. If it can not be arranged in your schedule, you are urged to join the dramatics club, The Campus Playshop.

WHAT HAVE YOU ACCOMPLISHED?

(The Bison, S. W. Univ., Jan. 9, 1930.)

Sixteen men have availed themselves of the opportunity to become leaders in the forensic field and are members of Coach Barber's debating team. About a dozen women are competing on the Southwestern women's debating team.

In the literary field, a score of men and women comprise the nucleus of the Bison. A dozen more are engaged in creating a bigger and better annual for 1930.

All told there are less than 100 active students in a student body of over one thousand. Less than 10 per cent.

After all is said and done, those students who have participated in the various activities offered have materially benefitted themselves—but the question still remains—WHAT HAVE YOU ACCOMPLISHED?

THE POLYGRAM

POLY CHATTER

Murph White has been seeking soft spots in his sitting position since the snow storm. He slid down a mountain, and landed his pants.

Bob Umbertis said that he saw some deer on the Cresta Grade after the snow fall and that some of them were throwing snow balls. Can you imagine that?

Barnyard Gossip

We of the dairy husbandry class understand that Phil Baron was detained at the ranch one morning last week and was therefore tardy to class. Phil is indeed unfortunate as it ruined his clean record of never having been tardy while a student at Poly.

The Junior Farm Center wishes to apologize for the disorderly conduct of two fistie combatants namely, Lester Van Kirk and his brutal antagonist, Hewitt. "The propagation house tenor."

Albert Kelly of the world famous "Dairy Barn Quartet" was suddenly taken sick with the mumps and was rushed to his house at Camarillo by John Hanna and Bob Irvine.

A flashy show mare was purchased at the beginning of the term, but for some reason nothing much has been said about her. She is a beautiful black Percheron, and is believed to have a future on the show circuit. She can be found at the corral on the right side of the horse barn and is unquestionably unparalleled in type by any animal on the Pacific coast.

Sharps and Flats

"Pop" Smith has changed the band books. We have nineteen new marches in addition to some of our others. They are chunky pieces and we are working hard on them.

Earl Pugh and Art Macfarlane played a clarinet duet for the local W. O. W. lodge at their Christmas program. Eugene Paterson also gave a saxophone solo.

How do these names sound? Der Freischutz, Orpheus Aux Enfers, Cavalleria Rusticana. That's what we play in our orchestra.

There are four classes of musical instruments.

The wood wind when the music is formed by a reed. This class includes the clarinet, saxophone, oboe, bassoon, and also the flute and picolo.

The brass wind when the music is formed by the lips of the player, acting as double reeds. This class includes the cornet, trumpet, mellophone, trombone, baritone, tuba, and other brasses.

Percussion instruments include the drums.

These three classes make up a band, but there is another group which is in the orchestra.

This is the stringed class which includes the piano, violin, viola, and bass viol.

Bill Nissen is a new saxophone player in the band. Welcome.

Flashovers & Short Circuits

An interesting letter was recently received from the Educational Department of the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Company regarding our recent graduates. We take the liberty to quote certain parts we believe to be of interest to all connected with Polytechnic.

The Junior Technical Course was organized especially to take care of the needs of two year and three year technical colleges, the first group of thirty-seven students having started last June.

Eleven different schools are represented in this group; twelve have chosen engineering, six manufacturing, fourteen sales and one service, as their objective. Eleven different schools are represented in this group, including California Polytechnic, represented by Mr. W. E. Coffey, Mr. L. L. Everts, and Mr. R. J. Lawn.

Some of the departments in which they have obtained experience are listed on the attached sheet Exhibit "A". Weekly conference which they have attended included lectures and discussions of many phases of company activities, as well as subjects of general interest as noted on sheet "B".

These men continued their technical and business training by attending night classes at Carnegie Institute of Technology, Westinghouse Technical Night School, or the technical sections at the Westinghouse Club.

We hope that more of California Polytechnic graduates will avail themselves of this opportunity for training, and we shall be glad to answer any inquiries or supply further information.

The exhibits "A" and "B" referred to comprise lists of subjects covering a wide range of activities and show that these boys are making thoroughly good. This is obvious from the last paragraph.

Galley Slaves

The Galley Slave members spent their vacation in the following places: Mr. Preuss, Clyde Davis, and Frank Abbott, San Luis Obispo; Larry Daylight, Eureka; Roy Anderson and Ray Hunsucker, Wheatland; Joe Wilkins, Atascadero; Ed Smith, Santa Maria; Fred Wood, Los Angeles; Robert Lea, San Diego; Sterling Phillips, Campus; Paul Carver, Morro Bay.

After a few days vacation we are all back to work again.

The Galley Slaves have two new members: Robert E. Lea and John Sensenbough.

Lea arrived from San Diego about two weeks before vacation and since then he has told us many strange and weird tales of his native country.

Sensenbough hails from Merced.

We regret the leaving of two Galley Slave members, Sterling Phillips and Frank Abbott. Sterling has returned to his home in Fresno. Frank Abbott is now attending the San Luis High.

After two weeks of hard work the Parakeet was turned out the day before vacation.

It seems as though this San Diego fellow is not so slow as he was seen on the Morro road with some fair maid Sunday.

Barracks Breezes

Three of the boys from the Barracks have been reported missing from their rooms since Christmas vacation. With these three exceptions everyone has reported and are enjoying the quietness of the Barracks.

George Schmidt has been having stationery and cards printed since returning from vacation. It is understood that George has found a new girl friend in Lodi. How about it, George?

Any one on the Poly Road last Monday morning about five o'clock might have seen Briggs walking home. No, he did not go to San Pedro over the week-end. Say, Briggs, who was the girl friend you had in the Dragon Sunday night?

Hiram Jewart spent the week-end with his mother at Lompoc. He seems to enjoy going to Lompoc to see his mother. The boys in the Barracks are under the impression that there is more attraction than that for Hiram.

Deuel Dorm Events

Our Deuel Dorm basketball team has lost one game so far. We have played Heron Hall, the Barracks, the Laundry teams, and the town team, losing only to the town team. Our team is good, and we don't mean maybe.

There is nothing wrong with Mr. Cunningham's eyes. A week ago we had inspection of the rooms and, no matter how clean we thought our rooms were, he could always find the dirty places.

Santa Claus must have been feeling generous when he gave out the faculty automobiles this Christmas, judging by the two beauties drawn by Mr. Macfarlane and Mr. Thompson.

Creamery Cheeses

The morning of the snowfall the Creamery inhabitants journeyed into the mountains to participate in a little winter sport. The day passed merrily, but none spoke of a hot time.

A crude sled was hastily constructed by some of the boys and, after hauling it to the summit, Murph White decided that a sled wasn't really needed for sliding, so he tried sliding on his back.

As he finally found his feet again, he was hard to recognize.

He looked more or less like an Egyptian mummy come to life as he began scraping mud off of himself. It was "a beautiful sight," so someone reported.

Last week Alois Wolf and Arlo Aubrey helped the Barracks in their basketball game against Deuel Hall.

Poly Phase Club

A regular meeting of the Poly Phase Club was held Dec. 13, 1929. Several talks were delivered by members of the Club.

The meeting was brought to order by President Ewan. The meeting was then turned over to the speakers. Bill Weaver gave a talk on Electrical Progress. Perry Crandall talked on steam turbine generating plants. This talk was accompanied by slides projected on the screen. Sinclair and Ewan gave interesting talks about trips that they have taken to the Southern California Edison Co.

The importance of the Poly Phase meetings were explained by Mr. Hyer as the opportunity for development of self poise and speaking before the public.

Dr. Wilder finished the evening entertainment by expressing his gratitude on the present success of the Poly Phase Club.

POLY CRACKERS

Dear Poly Crackers:
Why does "Murph" White sit down so very carefully now and always hollering for a pillow?

Yours questioningly,

Interested.

Dear Interested:

It has been reported that "Murph" slipped while up in the snow and hit rather hard. Ask him for further particulars.

Helpfully yours,

Poly Crackers.

Dear Poly Crackers:

Please advise me as to whether a Shakespearean play could be given by an all male cast. I'm trying to plan ahead for Poly's dramatic future.

Yours in a quandary,

Miss Peterson.

Dear Miss Peterson:

Miss Abbott should be a whiz at answering any questions concerning Shakespeare and his works. She spent much of her vacation time watching the antics of the Avon Players.

Yours, for reference,

Poly Crackers.

Dear Poly Crackers:

Who is the lucky girl that inveigled Bill Swain out of his new Frat pin?

Yours truly,

Hank Loomis.

Dear Hank:

Bill claims that he has lost the pin entirely. In fact, he is sorry that he held out on a certain member of the fair sex because he would have known something of its whereabouts then.

Yours for information,

Poly Crackers.

What Other Schools Are Doing

The aviation cult of Altoona High School, Altoona, Pa., is building a small dirigible. It is about ten feet long and will be painted silver.

Students on the Yale University campus are lamenting the departure of Mrs. Mary Garrison, otherwise called "God Bless You Mary", who has done the collegians laundry work for over fifty years. The aged laundress, who is returning to her native England for the rest of her days, is said to have gotten her odd nick name from being thanked, "God Bless You", by the students when they called for their laundry. Fullerton (J. C.) Weekly Torch.

Junior Class Notes

How about it, Juniors? Have you got the real class spirit? Yes? All right, prove it by paying up your dues. Remember we need your assistance in putting over the dance and Junior-Senior Prom. The way you give this assistance is to turn in your four dollars to our secretary. Come on gang, let's go. Any fellow who doesn't pay up his dues gets demoted to the Sophomore class.

Whaddya say, gang?

"Caf" Skits

Well, well, well, well—here we are, all or nearly all, back on the job again ready to carry on for another six months.

With the exception of Frank Abbott, the old gang is back to do their stuff, behind the counter and otherwise, and how.

The Caf Gang have been getting things, and ideas, in shape for a good, snappy assembly when the time comes.

Says the Santa Barbara Morning Press: "The popularity of the great lovers on the screen is perhaps to some extent due to the circumstance that a lot of less great lovers in the audience get a chance to pick up good points."

Gentleness and a kind heart are often found beneath the humblest garb.

Believe It Or Not

By "Slim" and "Chops"

"Turkey" Webb, the loose limbed boy of the campus, is one of the greatest cut throats now known. He waits until the boy friend is out of town to make his catch. Mark Miller won the barrel rolling contest. He rolled it to the big steel bridge. Boys aren't the only ones that like to chew ears. Bill Swain is almost deaf from Della chewing his. "Pop" Millsap, "Chester" Hogue, "Shorty" Loomis, "Nick" Carter and "Big Stuff" Fry, made cute little boys running around town with their pants rolled up to their dimpled knees. Larry Dwight has lost his footing on Mill Street since Bill Williams had a little time to spare at Thanksgiving. The big he man, Ciro and great lively "End" on the varsity team made a big holler because a ninety pound girl had to sit on his lap. Ray Cline had too much Thanksgiving. You may see Ray sleeping in first period and second period study hall. R. Tellam is sure fond of heavy dates when riding around Morro Beach Inn. Dick Ingham did not have enough sleep over the vacation and had to be late the first day. Bill Judson has finally awakened after almost a half a year. Del Parro is quite the boy for stealing things and eating them, but doesn't always get away with it. Bill Swain has given up a blonde for the brunette. Willie Williams is quite the renowned chap around this school.

As We See It

By Ray and Paul

After practicing for basketball some boys find that they are unable to make the team. They no doubt will think, "Oh what's the use" and quit. But there is this year's experience which will help them throughout the following year. It takes a fellow with a big heart to stay out all season and not earn a letter. Have you the nerve to stay out?

Have you an opening for a bright, energetic student? Yes, and don't slam it on your way out.

My son has many original ideas, hasn't he? Yes, especially in spelling.

If you live in an apartment that isn't exactly sound proof, just suppose you lived in Holland where the children upstairs wear wooden shoes.

NO CHANGE DESIRED

Office Boy: There's a man outside with a mustache. Boss: Tell him that I've got a mustache.

"What would you give for a voice like mine?" "Chloroform."

Frank Abbott: I play the piano just to kill time. Bill Judson: You sure have a fine weapon.

"What's wrong with your foot?" "Got a corn." "Have you done anything for it?" "After the way it's been hurting me? I should say not."

Of all the words of tongue or pen, The saddest are "I'm broke again."

Diner: Hey, waiter, this chicken has no wishbone.

Waiter: He was a happy and contented chicken, sir, and had nothing to wish for.

He: Do you believe in capital punishment? Him: Yeah; if I could only raise some capital, I'd sure punish it.

Mark Miller: Yeah; if I could only raise some capital, I'd sure punish it.

Teacher: Give me a sentence using the word "bewitched."
Mickey: Go ahead, fellers, I'll be witches in a minute.

Doctor (at a medical inspection): Say a-a-ah.
Ciro: No speaka da English.

Ashley: Mr. Agosti, the barometer has fallen.
Agosti: How far?
Ashley: (guiltily): Almost five feet.

Bob: I have a blind date for tonight.
Della: Yes, she would have to be.

Miss Abbott: What part of speech is woman?
Little Nick: She ain't a part of speech, teacher, she's all of it.

He made a run around end—Was tackled from the rear.
The right guard sat upon his neck.
The fullback on his ear.
The center sat upon his back.
Two ends upon his chest.
The quarter and the half back then sat down on him to rest.
The left guard sat upon his head.
Two tackles on his face.
The corner was then called in To sit upon his case.

"Am I late for the Chicago Express?"
"No you are early, it is only 7 o'clock."
"How long will I have to wait?"
"Until tomorrow evening at 0:15."

Teacher: What was the greatest thing about Washington?
Lindbergh: His memory. They erected a monument to it.

She: What a pretty mouth you have. It ought to be on a girl's face.
He: It doesn't often miss the chance.

Dumb: How near were you to the right answer of the fifth question?
Bull: Two cents away.

Cop: Hey, you can't do that.
Bob Umbertis: Why not?
Cop: Well, a right turn is wrong—The left turn is right. If you want to turn right, turn left and then—aw, go ahead.

Love may make the world go around, but so does a sock in the jaw.

Mother: What's the matter, my dear?
Della: The boy friend and I have parted forever.
Mother: Well, in that case I don't suppose he will be around for a few days.

Capt. Deuel: Have you anything to say about the number of hours of work you are about to receive?
Bean: Nothing, except that it takes very little to please me, sir.

Mr. Erving: Della, which is your favorite hymn?
Della: The one you chased over the fence last night, daddy.

Hazlehurst: Don't you wish you were a boy again?
Scotch Burns: Yes, I could travel for half fare.

Poly Student: See here waiter, the knife isn't clean.

Cafeteria Student: Why it must be. The last thing I cut with it was a bar of soap.

Lola: Just look at the electricity in my hair.
Boy Friend: No wonder, it's covered with a dry cell.

Ciro: What happened to you?
Condray: I threw a horseshoe over my shoulder.

Ciro: And?
Condray: There was a horse on the end of it.

Ikey: Papa, vat is science?
Papa: My, how could you be so dumb? Science is dose things vat says "No smoking."

Miss Knox: What did Paul Revere say at the end of his ride?
Cline: Whoa.

Cafeteria Walter: It looks like rain.
Polyite: It does, but it smells like soup.

Dumb: Why do you scratch yourself?
Dora: 'Cause I'm the only one who knows where I itch.

Ciro: What does "quien sabe" mean?
Miss Hawkins: Who knows?
Ciro: I don't.

Bandit: Your money or your life.
Della: Take my life, I have to save my money for graduation expenses.

Zook: I dreamed I was dead last night.
Adrien: Well?
Zook: When I woke up the steam heat was still on.

Teacher: Conjugate drink.
Judson: He will drink, he has drank, he is drunk.

Poof: What will I do if they ask me to sing at assembly?
Aldro: Do? Why sing of course; it will be their own fault.

Chuck Milham: Soap's good for the eyes.
Bill Judson: Yes?
Chuck: Yeah, it makes them smart.

Lola Roberts: Did you see Mr. Funk look at you just as though you had not studied your lesson?
Mary Parsons: Yes, and I looked back at him just as if I had studied it.

An old lady was going to town and stopped by the village church to listen to the choir. Nearby a naturalist was listening to the song of a cricket.
Old Lady: That is a beautiful song, isn't it?
Naturalist: Yen, they do it by rubbing their hind wings together.

The man who saves money now says isn't a miser—he's a wizard.

June Bug: I've had only two girls walk home on me.
Bill Swain: What did the rest do—run?

"Yes, his idea was that he could beat the train to the crossing."
"Did he get across?"
"Well, yes, he will, just as soon as the monument maker has finished it."

B. Milen: Why were you so careful to see that there were no worms in that apple?
H. Borah: I'm a strict vegetarian.

Miss Hankin: Leave the room, please.
Ciro B: I didn't intend to take it with me.

Mustangs Defeated By Cal Lightweights

Ramblers Win Over Paso Robles Alumni in Preliminary Game.

Last Tuesday night the Mustangs met their first defeat of the season after winning the first three starts. They were up against the strongest team that they will have to battle with for the remainder of the entire season.

Although the Poly boys failed to show much opposition against the more experienced and faster team from Cal, they did well at times. At other times it seemed as if the Poly defense was nothing but a funnel trying to hold water.

The Cal boys started in the lead, and the Mustangs were unable to sink enough baskets to give them a good game.

It would be hardly fair to judge the Mustangs' performance by the game Tuesday night, as they were up against a team which completely outclassed them in every respect. The final score was 45-16.

In the preliminary game, the Ramblers defeated the Paso Robles Alumni in a wild game which was a rough and tumble contest from start to finish. At the end of the first half, the Ramblers led by the score of 30 to 13. During the last half, the winners managed to double their score while the visitors were only able to score seven points, making the final score 60 to 20 in favor of the Ramblers.

The Ramblers showed up well with plenty of team work. They were led in scoring by Adams who seemed to have the ability to sink baskets at will.

Motorcycle Riders To Hold Hill Climb

The Central Coast Motorcycle Club hill climb will be staged this Sunday, January 19, in Los Osos Valley about five miles from town.

Three big events, for the 45, 74, and 80 cubic inch motors will be here, with Polytechnic riders competing in each. This is the club's third climb, and each have been a thrilling event. Expert riding and spectacular spills are all in the day's program.

In Los Osos Valley, signs will direct you to the hill climb, which starts at 2 p. m. sharp. In case rain prevents, it will take place January 26.

Come see the most thrilling sport in the world.

How's life as a freshman?
I've only a hazy idea.

Poly Plays Sacramento J. C. in First League Game of this Season

The Poly Mustangs will play their first conference game tonight against the Sacramento J. C. strong quintet. Last season the Sacramento boys came within an ace of winning the California Coast Conference. And this season they figure on making a stronger bid and they intend to start the season in the right way by defeating the Mustangs.

Although the Mustangs did not have an all well last season they expect to give the rest of the teams in the Coast Conference a real bid for the championship this season. The Mustangs have many new men this season and they are showing up well.

Coach McCart has worked out a good combination with the lettermen from last season and the new men.

Let's help those Mustangs win the first conference game by supporting them from the rooting section tonight and tomorrow night.

Clever Program Given By the Spanish Club

Hola! Hola! Como esta Ud? Bueno no? No me importa.

The Spanish Club proved their originality in a clever assembly program Dec. 4.

The scene was typical of a market place in old Mexico during a fiesta time. Vendors called their wares with an enthusiasm that would put a Mexican vendor to shame.

Due to Miss Haskins' diligent coaching both the Spanish and the English words were said distinctly, so that the audience was able to understand through words and action the entire course of the little play.

The bright fiesta costumes of the Spanish changed a drab stage into a riot of color, dazzling, but attractive to the eyes.

Though this is the first appearance on the stage for many of the cast, they did excellently.

Usher: (To cold dignified lady): Are you a friend of the bridegroom?
Lady: No, indeed! I am the bride's mother.

Devil: What are you laughing at?
His assistant: Oh, I just had that flapper locked up in a room with a thousand hats and no mirrors.

Mustangs Win Over Santa Maria Moose

Last Friday night the Poly Mustangs made a trip to Santa Maria where they played the Moose Lodge five of that city. This is the second time the two quintets have met this season. The first game was played several weeks ago on the Poly floor.

Last Friday night the Moose team started the game going and led the Poly boys through nearly the entire first half, but when the Mustangs finally found the basket they soon managed to score enough baskets to put them in the lead for the remainder of the game.

The final score was 45 to 40 in the Mustangs' favor.

The Poly Varsity has started out with a good clean record, winning the first two starts of the season. Come on, Mustangs, keep up the good work.

Mustangs To Meet Santa Barbara Five

After tomorrow night's game, the Mustangs will play two more games before the next issue of the Polygram. One with the Santa Barbara State Teachers on January 22. And two nights later they will meet the Moran J. C. from Atascadero. Both games will be held in the Crandall Gym, and are expected to be good games.

On January 31 and February 1, the Mustangs will play at San Mateo against the San Mateo Junior College. Come on Polyites, let's crowd the Crandall Gym to full capacity for every game this season. And when the team makes those two trips to the north, let's see as many familiar faces as possible at the games to help cheer the team.

SHADOWS ON THE WALL

A Mystery Story in Six Parts

BY RAY KING

At the end of the last installment George Lewis, John Emery, Bob King and I were on our way out to John Clair's house to get the key of the land so we could plan a way to capture the "Phantom," an unknown character, and a man that was responsible for the death of three innocent men. Now continue with the story.

INSTALLMENT III

THE house was situated at the end of a little promontory which jutted out into the ocean about a quarter of a mile. From the back of the house the beach was about an eighth of a mile. Behind the promontory ended in a cliff about sixty feet high, while down below there was a little stretch of sand about twelve feet wide. This was bare during low tide but at high tide it was sure death for anyone to attempt to cross or even get near it, for the waves would pick one up and smash him against the cliff with all its sharp rocks.

After we got there we found the Colonel and told him all we knew about his being the victim of the "Phantom." He took the news calmly enough, which made us admire him even more for his courage and bravery. He asked us, after we told him how we knew he was to be the next victim, what our plans were. We told him and he was quite enthusiastic over the proposition.

In some way or another Isabelle learned about this shadow which hung over her father and refused to leave the house as we had planned for her to do. This left us in a quandary.

The Colonel at that moment suggested a cup of coffee which was quite acceptable so we required to the living room where Ninette, the maid, served us.

We had just finished our coffee when the clock struck eleven-thirty. That was our cue. The Colonel went up to his room on the second story and went to bed.

Having no fear of the "Phantom" occupying by the rear or sides, we had but the front of the house to guard from the outside.

George, Bob, and John were stationed at strategic places and I took my place in the house with Isabelle. We had a cheerful fire going in the fireplace and "Icy" and I sat there talking until eleven-fifty-five.

Isabelle began to get very nervous and suddenly she screamed which echoed and re-echoed all through the house. I looked at her and found her eyes distended with terror and her face blanched with sudden horror.

I looked towards the wall where she was looking and there I saw the shadow of a figure. It was that of a giant man with eyes that burned beneath great bushy eyebrows. It had a face that was the most horrible re-incarnation of Satan himself. It made my blood run cold and I shuddered as I felt the hair on my scalp prickle.

Then it was gone.

Watch for the next installment of this story in the next issue of the Polygram.

The Dark Ages were so dark that men went to knight school.
